About Early Start ...

Taking part in Early Start is voluntary and free.

Early Start supports whānau who are expecting a new baby or who are already caring for a new baby up to 12 months of age. Whānau living in Canterbury, and who meet the referral criteria, are eligible for this long-term home visiting response. We can work alongside you and your whānau according to your specific and individual need.

How do Whanau/Families Connect?

Your Well Child Provider, Midwife, GP or any other agency you are involved with, may recognise that you and your whānau/family are facing some challenges and suggest connecting with Early Start. Self-Referrals are also encouraged.

Getting to Know You

During the first 5 or 6 weeks you will get to know your Family Support Worker/Whānau Āwhina and learn in more detail what Early Start is all about. This can be a time for you to ask more questions when deciding if Early Start is the right support for you.

How Can Early Start Help You?

Each Family Support Worker/Whānau Āwhina seeks to form a positive partnership/relationship with your family taking into account your individual varying needs, dreams and goals.

Together we develop your 'child and family plan' which will help you to recognise your own, and your family's strengths and connections, and to identify those areas you want support with. Your whānau/family plan is designed to encourage you to look at new ways to manage challenges and difficulties while supporting you to raise your children in the healthiest and most enjoyable way possible.

At the start your Family Support Worker/Whānau Āwhina will visit you at home weekly as you get to know each other.

Kai Hapai Mātauranga Māori for Early Start, will awahi Māori Whānau through the relationship with their Family Support Worker/Whānau Āwhina.
